WHAT PEOPLE STOP TO TALK ABOUT

Charles O. Scull, General Passenger Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio road, arrived in the city yesterday. He came here to make his appointments in the passenger department or the Pittsburg and Western, which was merged into the Baltimore and Ohio March 15. In a circular issued last week C. W Bassett, General Passenger Agent of the P. & W., was overlooked, at least his name was not mentioned, and apparently he was unprovided with a place after the merger. Mr. Scull recommended him to be the assistant general passenger agent of the line, and yesterday a circular was issued, signed by President Oliver and Mr. Scull, announcing the appointment, requesting all ticket agents on the road to report to Mr. Bassett and make requisitions for supplies to him. This leaves the Pittsburg and Western manned by its old officers, and none of them is more popular with the patrons of the line than Mr. Bas-

Next in order is the improvement of the road. Mr. Scull gave it as his opinion that through trains to Chicago will not be run by way of Pittsburg before next fall. Double-Tracking the P. & W.

Something must be done to provide for the enormous freight traffic and to keep the tracks clear for the fast trains. It has been decided to double-track the line as well as reballast it and put in new ties. The Baltimore and Ohio now has the money, and they will spend about $2,000,000 on the Pittsburg and Western in betterments. It is expected that the bulk of the work will be done by next fall. The minor details concerning the operation of the road have not been con-General Superintendent, but his au-thority ends in Allegheny. The chances are that his jurisdiction will be extended to Cumberland, and that Pittsburg will be the middle of a division running from Cumberland to Akron or Chicago Junction. A small passenger sta-tion will be built at Thirty-third street for the western passengers, and the through trains will run over the junction road without coming down town.

"The Baltimore and Ohio has spent a great deal of money recently in improve-ments," remarked Mr. Scull. "Last year 40 new engines were added to the rolling stock. A number of them were the large type of passenger locomotives, with drivers 6 teet 6 inches in diameter. None are used in this section, as the schedules are not so fast as between New York and Washing-ton. Last year 59 miles of third track were

"It is the intention to build 12 miles of third track this summer between Pittsburg and Connellsville. About 30 miles will be put down on the Baltimore division. The third track for sidings is a good idea, as the main tracks without stopping.

next year will be heavy. I don't look for a great deal from Europe. I don't believe nore than 50,000 people will come from the Old World to the fair, and with 8 lines from New York to Chicago, the busi-ness will be small when it is divided among The European travel will be a me bagatelle compared to our own. The Western passengers will come East, and the Eastern people will go to the far West before they return home. I think the lake lines will do a big business. A trip over the lakes is very fascinating, and a number of people take it year after year. Nothing has been done about rates but I think an excursion ticket, good for 6 months, at a two-third rate will be established. Lower rates will be made where the time is shorter."

to Eun Ballroads. A. Barre, the inventor of the Barre sliding railroad, and P. Horvath are stopping at the Duquesne. The road was so great s novelty at the Paris Exposition that it was decided to build a line a mile long at the World's Fair. Mr. Horvath said there was such a crowd around the road in Paris that they had to hire policemen to keep the people back. Mr. Barre is in the city to contract for the construction of the The rails will be made by Carnegie, Phipps & Co. The work will cost about $300,000. The sliding road is operated by hydraulic pressure. A film of water is forced between the car and the rails. In this way the friction is reduced to a mini-mum. Mr. Barre claims that the speed at-tained will be 125 miles per hour, but the motion is so easy that the passengers do not know how fast they are going.

The aim of Mr. Barre is to see his idea.

applied to street and steam railroads. Any-body, by performing a few simple tests, can soon determine the great force of hydraulic pressure. Mr. Horvath says that by applying the invention, it would no longer be necessary to build tunnels. Railroad could run up and down mountains, and the trains could be hauled with the same speed as on a level surface.

WORK ON THE WALLS YARD.

Training Wreck Crews to Handle Themselves Quickly When Called. The Pennsylvania Road is pushing the work on the Walls yards very rapidly. The company is also introducing the latest ideas that will tacilitate the handling of traffic. The officials claim the yards, when completed, will be the largest in the world. Two round-houses, one for the Panhandle, the other for the Pennsylvania road, are being built. Each will have a capacity of 40 engines, and will be finished about April 15. The first locomotive was run into the Panhandle engine house yesterday. The company es-timates that 1,500 men will be needed to keep the yards going. Mr. Lee, who conwill open a lunch room to feed the men.

As considerable time is lost getting wreck rains to the scene of accidents, the crews are being trained to handle themselves quickly when called. An electric gong is just into each man's house, which is not far from the roundhouse, and when a wreck ocfire is kept in one of the loco-motives all the time, and everything is in readiness to connect it with the cars.

The men have been practicing some quick modes of dressing, and it is expected that within five minutes after a call is made the train will be on the road to the wreck. The men take great pride in their work and

THE CONTESTS DROPPED.

Suffey Delegates Will Be Admitted to the State Convention — A Harmonious Arrangement Effected—New York Democrats Weary of the Cleveland-Hill

It was stated last night on reliable authority that there would not be any contests in the Second and Seventh Legislative districts of the Twenty-third Congressional district. Since the conventions last Tuesday, in which J. M. Guffey's followers were successful in two of the three districts, it has been reported that the result would be contested and would be carried to the State Department. John Jiles, of the Secretary of State's office at Harrisburg, announced before the result was known that a contest would be made. Ex-Postmaster Larkin stated that there was no possibility of John Huckenstein's State delegates being seated in the State Conven-tion and Huckenstein himself announced that if his delegates were thrown out of the State Convention he would carry the matter to the National Convention for adjustment

The announcement last night, it is alleged, will dispose of all this trouble and the anti-Guffey people have advised Messrs. Os-borne and Kunkle, who were arranging the contest, to let the matter drop. This advice it is announced will be taken, and the Guffey delegations from Allegheny county will be seated without dispute.

This harmonious arrangement of the political dispute among the Democrats was being liberally discussed among the party leaders last night and all seemed satisfied with the condition affairs had assumed. J. M. Guffey returned yesterday morning from a hurried trip to New York. He says the Democratic politicians of the East are delighted with the turn taken in Congress on the silver question and all are now confident of electing a Democratic President.

"The platform of the party will now be revenue reform without side issues," Mr. Guffey said, "and the people are with us on that issue. The people of New York are much divided on the question of Presidental candidates. The fight between the Cleveland and Hill factions is decidedly bitter and agreed many of the more conservative. ter and a great many of the more conservative leaders—those who look upon the party as being more important than any man in it— are firm in the belief that it would be bad policy to nominate either Cleveland or Hill. However, all this will be thoroughly canvassed by the Chicago convention and can assure you that whoever is nominated I will do as much as any other Democrat in this or any other State to elect him."

DRAWING THE PRIZES

The Entire Pittsburg List Will Be Handed Down Tuesday Evening.

JUDGES ARE TO REST ON THAT DAY.

And Make a Final Decision on All the Applications Heard.

ATTORNEYS . BETTING TO -KILL TIME

Tuesday evening the License Court lottery will make its regular annual drawing, and the list of prizes drawn in Pittaburg will be nnounced that night. The whole of the Pittsburg list will be completed to-morrow, and the Court will rest on Tuesday and take final action on all the applications heard. There will be a large number of prizes given out this year, and with very few exceptions all the people who now hold license or who have bought out licensed houses will be granted again. There is only the slightest hance that all the list will not be ready before Wednesday morning, when Allegheny will be taken up.

The hearings yesterday were very monotmous and have been so for several days. The only thing that breaks it is an occasional tiff between B. C. Christy and the attorneys. Another face that is becoming a familiar feature in License Court is that of A. C. Robertson, Esq., the free bridge advo-cate, of the Southside, who is figuring almost as conspicuously as Mr. Christy, but on the other side. He has been catching almost one-third of the cases.

Attorneys Make Bets to Kill Time. So far the Court has heard over 100 cases every day and the record of former license courts was never over 60 a day. It went so slow yesterday, however, that the people who were forced to listen to it put in the time by making bets on the chances of various applicants.
In the case of John Burg, 2606 Carson, his attorney asked the applicant: "Are you a man of good moral character?" This novel way of putting the question caused a smile all over the courtroom. But this was no worse than a question put to an applicant in the afternoon, when he was asked if there had been any police disturbances in his place during the past year. The fact is, the attorneys ask a great many unnecessary questions, and this is why so many appli-cants get along better by themselves than when Charles Harsh, of 2134 Carson street, was called, the attorney asked him what kind of a house he would run in case he was granted a license.

Jacob Klarner, 1501 Pius street, was the first applicant heard in the afternoon that was detained very long. He had been re-fused four times in succession. Several witnesses testified to his character. He said he had run a pool room for two years' but got out of the business because he thought it kept him from getting a license. He now runs a candy store.

The Bearded Prophet Draws Blood, Ex-Alderman John Lohrman, of the Thirtieth ward, is applying for 645 and 647 Brownsville avenue. He admitted that he had been indicted three times for selling without license. In one case the bill was ignored, but in the other two he pleaded guilty, and sentence was suspended upon

Mr. Christy flashed a remonstrance against Lorenz Manz and Frank Fisher, of 107 Pius street, charging that the applicants were not fit persons to keep a saloon; that the house had been refused in 1891, and that Manz had run a speak-easy ever since. Mr. Manz denied this. He said he had a license in 1890, but did not apply last year because he was sick. Several witnesses, including ex-Constable Schuetzinger, appeared in his behalf. Mr. Christy also drew out an admission from Mr. Manz that he had had a license two years before he was a naturalized citizen notwithstending the necessity. uralized citizen, notwithstanding the provision of the law requiring an applicant to swear he was a United States citizen when securing license before the Brooks law went into effect.

Ex-Chief of Police Brokaw, Police Magistrate Succop and Southside Market Clerk McDonald constituted the array of witnesses who appeared in behalf of August Bodenhagen, of 1401 Carson street, who has had a license every year but one under the Brooks law. Judge Collier said there was Brooks law. Judge Collier said there was a remonstrance, but it was signed by a fictitious name, and the Court could take no

Mr. Christy had a remonstrance charging Blasius Czyzewski, of 80 South Fifteenth street, with keeping a poolroom and permitting playing on Sunday, but the applicant denied this.

Wendel Daub set forth in his application for a license at South Fifteenth and Bingham streets that his house has eight rooms.

Mr. Christy brought out the fact that it had only four and that Mr. Daub had been refused three years in another ward. Mr. refused three years in another ward. Mr. Daub explained that he intended to remodel the house so as to have eight rooms and the reason he was refused before was because the house he applied for was too close to one of the Southside inclines.

It was the first case in which he had witnesses subpœnaed by the court to testify against applicants.
